MEDIA RELEASE – September 2009

MetFab Heating, Inc. Named Third in the Nation Daikin Network Alliance Dealer.

(Vancouver, Washington) If you live in Clark County and had a Daikin AC heat pump installed over the past few years, you're probably familiar with MetFab Heating, Inc., a Vancouver-based HVAC company.

Smashing the summer competition, MetFab Heating has officially been named the number one DNA (Daikin Network Alliance) dealer in Clark County, and third nationwide.

The Daikin Network Alliance (DNA) is a coalition of highly skilled HVAC contractors that enhance their business through promoting, purchasing and installing Daikin AC air conditioning equipment. Not all HVAC contractors are up to par.

MetFab Heating was chosen for the program based on their technical astuteness and capability of installing and servicing Daikin equipment. To qualify, MetFab participated in Daikin's installation and service training, and quickly rose to the challenge.

This isn't the first accolade MetFab Heating has received in recent months. They have also been named the Pacific Northwest's number one installer of Ductless Heat Pumps, and are considered pioneers of the field.

Further proof that no matter the season, MetFab Heating stands tall.
